

Top Tip #2:

If you're looking for extra things to do, our English department has produced this additional resources document with loads of different suggestions for you to support you where you struggle, or to challenge you in the areas that you enjoy. Literacy is such an important skill and one which underpins our whole curriculum at Stokesley school.

Word of the week	Reciprocal (adjective) - given, felt or done in return.

Riddle of the week	Which word is the odd one out: Seventy, Brawl, Clover, Proper, Carrot, Swing, Change, Travel, Sacred, Stone?
---------------------------	--

App of the week	Offtime could help you to focus on your work by blocking distracting apps and filtering communications. You can choose tailored modes to ensure that you have access to the things you need, but aren't distracted by what you don't.
------------------------	---

Remember that we have access to the online newspaper The Day so that you can keep up to date and engaged with the news.

Department	What great ideas do they have?
ICT and Computing	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> Introduction to Programming - Fancy learning about code and what it can do? Take a look at this page here and have a watch of the 3 videos. Why not try it yourself with the task at the end? Animation - Why not have a go at creating your own flipbook animation? You can do it on paper or use this site here to create a digital one. Share it with your ICT teacher once completed as I'm sure they will want to see it! Lego Video Game Art - One of the wonderful things about Lego is that it is practically tailor made for pixel art. Just think of each 1x1 brick as a pixel and your creative ideas will all but conjure themselves. Why not plan and create your favourite video game character out of Lego? Take a look at some of these ideas here. Mrs Metcalfe would love to see your creations as she is a huge gamer and is currently playing Lego Marvel Avengers! Video Game Recipes - Ever thought of turning your favourite video game character or scene into a cake? What about games controller cookies? Get yourself in the kitchen and make something inspired by a video game! You may make it so good that you don't want to eat it! Take a look at some of these food ideas here and make sure you take a photograph and send it in.
Languages	We are all about food this week in the Languages department, so here are some links to recipes and cooking shows to get your teeth into! Your teachers would love to see pictures of the results. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> French: Watch Le Meilleur Pâtissier (French 'Bake Off' with a very familiar tent!) or try out some typical French recipes here. German: Watch this German cooking show or try out some typical German recipes here Spanish: Watch Niquelado (Spanish 'Nailed It') or try out some typical Spanish recipes here
Music	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> BBC Radio 1, Radio 2, 6 Music, 1Xtra and the Asian Network will be joining forces every Thursday at 9am for the BBC's Great British Singalong, a mass singalong designed to lift the nation's spirits. Why don't you join in? Every Friday there's an amazing opportunity to Watch A Free Musical From Andrew Lloyd Webber. These are opportunities not to be missed - it's like being in London's West End from your very own sofa! Classic FM have made lots of their Music resources free for families during lockdown - there are lots of different things here for you to try. David Walliams' Marvellous Musical Podcast is well worth a listen. It claims to be aimed at everyone from 1 to one hundred thousand! Each episode is about 20 minutes long.

Getting through this time is about everybody doing their bit. What have you been doing? You've probably come across some great stuff online (or done some great stuff with your family) that you think everyone would enjoy. Why not email your suggestions to Mrs Fox (l.fox@stokesleyschool.org) and then next week everyone can be doing it!
